Dear Church Family,

We are pleased to announce that we will reopen our doors to members of our church family and guests this Sunday, May 3, 2020. However, we will continue to practice social distancing by family units. In other words, as you and your family enter through the front door of the worship center, our deacons will escort you to a row where you will all sit as a family. The next family to sit close to you will be six feet away. In the event that we have more families come to worship than we can currently handle within our main auditorium due to social distancing, we will have an overflow room setup in the fellowship hall. The only entrances that will be open are the front doors of the worship center and the fellowship hall. Please make plans to enter and exit through these doors.

Our worship service will continue to be broadcast online. The rest of the campus will remain closed, which includes our nursery. The church will only be open during the regular worship time. At this time, Sunday School will only occur online. During the week, the campus will continue to remain closed, but our staff is available if you need us.

If you do not feel well or are concerned about coming, please stay home and join us online. We look forward to the day when we can all worship together in person, but we will be returning incrementally over the next few months.

Until He comes,

The Staff of the First Baptist Church of Leonard
